

Extended through May 16, 2009

ENDANGERED SPECIES Flora & Fauna in Peril

Featuring fifty works of art in a variety of media (drawing, painting, printmaking, photography, and sculpture) depicting flora and fauna listed as threatened or endangered in North America by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. Over forty-seven species are represented, among them the California condor, Northern spotted owl, Grizzly bear, Black-footed ferret, Oahu tree snail, Sonora tiger salamander, Mesa Verde cactus, and Texas wild-rice. This exhibition, featuring work by forty artists, is the result of an international juried art competition organized by the Wildling Art Museum.

Deian Moore
I Need Some Air, 2007
Oil on canvas

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR MUSEUM

Main Interior Building
1849 C Street, NW Washington, DC 20240

For more information call (202) 208-4743 www.doi.gov/interiormuseum

Special Assistance - For those in need of special assistance (such as an interpreter for the hearing impaired) or inquiries regarding the handicapped entrance, please notify museum staff at (202) 208-4743 in advance of the event. Special needs will be accommodated whenever possible.