- Other

From 1982 to 2013, DOI disbursed $257.4 billion in mineral lease revenue.

Mineral lease revenue is one of the Federal government's largest sources of non-tax income.

Note: rounding may affect totals.

USEITI Multi-Stakeholder Group Formation

1 DOI performed robust stakeholder consultation and assessment in 2011-2012.

2 Secretary of the Interior signed the Multi-Stakeholder Group Charter in July, 2012. It establishes:

- A collaborative and consensus-based oversight of USEITI implementation
- A forum for consultation among stakeholders
- The committee's advice and recommendations to the Secretary will be public

3 Multi-Stakeholder Group created its Terms of Reference - finalized in May 2013. It defines:

- The scope, membership, leadership, decision-making, meetings, and responsibilities of the USEITI Multi-Stakeholder Group.

USEITI Multi-Stakeholder Group Members

21 Members and 20 Alternates representing a broad range of organizations and stakeholder interests.

USEITI From Formation to Candidacy

The Multi-Stakeholder Group's first major task was to create and submit its application for EITI candidacy to the EITI International Board.

In preparation, the MSG:

- Held eight public all-committee meetings at the Interior Department (throughout 2013)
- Participated in dozens of subcommittee and sector meetings (throughout 2013)
- Sought feedback from tribal governments and the public on its draft candidacy application (November - September 2013)

The MSG submitted the final candidacy application in December 2013. The EITI International Board officially approved the US candidacy in March 2014.

COUNTRY
by December 2017

USEITI Significance of Candidacy

Implementing EITI is unprecedented for a country as large and complex as the United States, because:

- We have thousands of companies in the extractives sector
- We have a federal system with state and tribal governments
- We have a mixture of public, state and private lands where extraction occurs
- We have a population of more than 300 million active and vocal citizens with very diverse points of view

September 2014: Next USEITI MSG Advisory Committee Meeting; Hiring Independent Administrator

December 2014: USEITI Work Plan; DOI On-line Data Pilot

December 2015: Publish first USEITI Report

December 2016: Publish second USEITI Report

March 2017: Complete validation and achieve compliance
