

Battle of the Atlantic Expedition (North Carolina coast)

The expedition is an exceptional collaboration among Federal, State, and academic entities to strengthen research efforts and to document historically significant shipwreck sites associated with World War II losses off the North Carolina coast. The partnership is dedicated to raising awareness of the war that was fought so close to the American coastline and to preserving our Nation's maritime history.

Nominated by the Minerals Management Service

East Carolina University

Nathan Richards

Steve Sellers

John Wagner

Minerals Management Service

Dave Ball

National Oceanic and Atmospheric

Administration

David Alberg

Tane Casserley

Lauren Heesemann

Joseph Hoyt

Jeff Johnston

Roger Mays

Chad M. Meckley

Todd Recicar

Shannon Ricles

National Park Service

David Conlin

Brett Seymour

North Carolina Aquarium on Roanoke Island

Patrick Murphy

North Carolina Department of Cultural Resources

Richard Lawrence

University of North Carolina

Coastal Studies Institute

John McCord