I found 2 outright errors, on Pacific Remote Islands and Papahānūmokuākea.

In the initial rush, I overlooked that the very large numbers on the chart for these two did not reflect the expansion, but only the original acreage. The other marine monuments are correct. The current acreage figures for these 2 are:

Pacific Remote Islands - 313,941,851.32 (suggest dropping the ".32")

Papahānūmokuākea - 372,848,597

I have 4 other terrestrial monuments out for review, where there were much smaller discrepancies, 2 with BLM and 2 with NPS, requested answers before noon.

I reviewed the chart, a NPS list of all monuments, FWS official annual lands report, the Executive Summaries and where discrepancies, the Proclamations, before sending to the bureaus.
