I received a call from a senior career person at NOAA with whom I worked on the Bush marine monuments and other issues, and who likely would be my counterpart on whatever review they are to do.

The career folks at NOAA have not heard anything from their 2 political appointees on this issue.

He is planning to propose internally that there be a joint DOI-NOAA team to review the marine monuments, help them get data on Sanctuary impacts on oil and gas etc. I believe this would be a practical solution to the issue, and would recommend it.
